Great Need of Real Golf Course in St. Cloud Strongly Emphasized

One day last week three automobiles stopped at the Chamber of Commerce. The occupants were looking and had decided to stop off here for a day or two of break their trip. They inquired of the secretary, where the golf course was, and when they found there was none in the city they went away. There were eight people in the party; eight people who are not our city, because we could not supply them with something that almost every cross roads village in the United States has, and that is a play-side golf course. This is not a fairy tale. It is a fact. An examination of the visitors register at Hotel Hills course at J. Westport shows that players from twenty miles around, come there to play regularly and this is thirty miles away in Polk County.

In all Osceola county there is not one first class golf course, and the county is the seventh largest in the state. In the last three years St. Cloud has talked of something like ten golf courses to be located in or near the city and outside of it, but there has been nothing actually done. Isn't it about time that we started into it, and really did something? Not because one or two or three of four like to play, but because golf is generally recognized as a real live asset to any town in the country and more especially in those towns which have a large visiting population. A course here in St. Cloud means popularizing the city. It means more people coming here, it means more people staying here, it means more money being spent in the community. It means better prices and more business. No matter whether golf to the individual means nothing but a pastime, or is just something to fill around a day field, it does mean dollars and cents in the pockets of every citizen in town. And it is high

PARENT-TEACHERS SPONSOR LABOR DAY PROGRAM

STATE ARCHERS TAKE PART IN CONTEST HERE TODAY

E. R. Becker, secretary of the St. Cloud Archery Club, has invited several of the central Florida cities to participate in an archery tournament which will be held in St. Cloud this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Orlando Archery Club will be represented by Messrs. Hart McLean and Rice.

Mr. Becker states that the tournament is open to everybody and that prizes will be given for a number of events, including a club trophy for a team event. Mr. Deen, Phelan and Davidson will enter teams.

The events will be as follows:

First: Team shoot for an aggregate trophy of 48 arrows at 50 yards.

Second: An open event for ladies, of 24 arrows at 50 yards.

Third: An open event for gentlemen, of 6 arrows at 100 yards.

Fourth: Shooting at gas-filled balloons, anchored three feet from the ground, at a distance of 25 yards.

FROM PRESIDENT OF ST. CLOUD TOURIST CLUB

Holla St. Cloud, A. W. Hall speaking. Howdy! Just want to say that we are coming to see you pretty soon. Want you to get on your best hip and tuckers for there are a lot of us, more than ever. We have given you a high recommendation, and we want the new tourists to be fully impressed by your latest style, so get up, paint up, and clean up, and wear your best grin. For there is a big lunch coming and they have high expectations and you know St. Cloud is never a disappointment. Miami and St. Petersburg may be disappointed, but St. Cloud is not disappointed with defeated expectations, so smile and laugh up. The success prospects has whetted the desire of many people to see—and believe. Book clothing to buy little feelings are the thing; they count, and start book accounts.

The much cold and damp, changeable and disagreeable weather up here in New York, and the prospects for early frosts are not to be disregarded, for surely they are coming, and when they come they are going to be heard around for six months or more. We around for six months or more. We wise folks are going to Florida, Ohio, and last season, but New York is coming this time, and don't you forget it. Call the next state. Respect us, for we are coming early, before the frost on your foliage. Our anticipated delight makes us show our teeth; our grin is not a grimace. No, do not reverse the charges.

"WHEATS TOGGERY" TO OPEN IN THE HUNTER BLOCK SATURDAY

On next Saturday will be the opening of the Wheat's Toggery in the Hunter Building on New York avenue. Mr. Grafton O. Wheat is the senior member of this new firm and with his brother, Clarence L. Wheat, has been in the goods furnishing business in Miami for the last five years.

The gentlemen not only have made the study and are familiar with the latest in men's wear, but also give special attention to the needs of the working man.

It is the intention to make this the largest and most complete line of goods furnishing, including also a fine line of sports shoes, in the county.

We are impressed with the fact that they are for home enterprise as that have bought everything possible in the way of store fixtures and supplies here in the city. Daniels and George Novelty company built the stationary furniture with glass enclosures, which not only protects but makes a beautiful display of the merchandise.

A visit to this up-to-the-minute store will convince one that there is nothing too good for St. Cloud, as this store is most attractive in its new rooms with new fixtures and new stock.

ST. CLOUD GETS NEW MANUFACTURING CO.

A long with the many other good things that have come to St. Cloud, recently, comes the fact that St. Cloud is not going to have, but is now having a two story building erected on Maryland avenue between 10th and 11th streets, in which will be manufactured an electric refrigerator for domestic use.

Mr. Wieland, who with his wife and sons, Howard and Robert, who have recently come to our city from Putnam, Fla., and bought the Purdie property on Maryland avenue, is putting up a two story building on the rear of this property.

Without sounding of horn or blow of the whistle in the very near future the plant will be in operation.

Mr. Wieland is a man of years' experience in electrical work having owned and operated power houses in different cities and in the mean time has invented an electrical device for the domestic refrigerator. It is his purpose to make these for distribution over the state.

Another new business opens in St. Cloud.

After having spent three winters in St. Cloud and observing the needs and possibilities, F. J. Smith, Jr., of Norfolk, Conn., has come to St. Cloud for permanent residence and has opened a grocery on the corner of Alabama avenue and Tenth street.

It is Mr. Smith's intention to carry a fully line of fancy and staple groceries which will be a quite an accommodation to this section of the city. He and his father live at the corner of Connecticut avenue and Fifteenth street.

St. Cloud Noses Out St. Petersburg With Home Run in Eleventh Inning

It used to be "Battrees for today's game, Matthewson and Bresnahan," now it's Carney and Shirley. For eleven innings the score sawawed back and forth last Saturday in the game between St. Cloud and the McKee-Kelly aggregation from St. Petersburg, and finally, when it was six o'clock, and every one was beginning to think up what story was to be told if they were late for supper, Shirley decided that he had been around that field long enough and anyway he was getting hungry and when "long John" gets hungry something is liable to happen, and it did, Shirley swung and that ball went away from those up and out and toward the orange grove in left field, and by the time the St. Pete crowd had dug round in the grove, Shirley was rounding third and the throw in was merely a prefunctory gesture. The game was won and that was that.

Carney pitched well though at one stage of the game he acted as if the ball was getting to him and his support was none of the best. Not an unkind error of commission as of omission. On the other hand while in the infield, watched at times the outfield was there and then some. "Can't you catch that left field," asked one of the visitors after Rogers had made the most spectacular catch of the season, in the second inning. And it was a catch. The ball was snatched for many bases as it went away but somehow running as fast as his legs would carry him and watching the ball over his shoulder, Rogers managed to spear it with one hand as it went over his head. It was a fine catch. Another fielder deserving mention was Charley Lowe, who played steadily and was a sure trap for any fly that came any where near him.

It was a good game and those who didn't see it missed something. One

Tribune Subscriber in California Suggests Central Florida Waterway

San Francisco, Calif., August 14, 1926.

Editor St. Cloud Tribune:

Dear Sir:—Permit me to make a few suggestions in reference to your article of the 24th last relating to "Drainage and Navigation Possibilities of Osceola County", and also, incidentally, of Orange and other counties, pertaining to the proposed canal, being interested in your State for various reasons and factored from early youth to study maps, my attention was called to the numerous canals that connect the lakes and rivers of Central Florida, which suggested that a waterway for large boats, even Ocean liners, could be cut, via the St. Johns river and the numerous rivers, lakes and canals already constructed, from Jacksonville to Tampa, at a comparatively small expense. I have the latest published map of Florida before me, wherein all the lakes, rivers and canals of the state, from the smallest to the largest, are clearly outlined.

This great and beautiful river, the St. Johns, one of God's or Nature's "master-works," can be utilized for the proposed waterway for over two-thirds the entire distance in connecting the Atlantic with the Gulf at an expense, however, until it reaches the Rockledge-Deerfoot river. This runs in a southerly direction for about thirty miles. Its source is but a few miles from the source of another river of about same length which empties in Lake Traust, running directly south-west. This lake is only about twenty miles from Orlando, and twenty-five miles from Lake Conway, mentioned in the engineers' plans.

Now this strikes me as to far the most feasible, most practical and most economical route through Central Florida—a route that 90 out of a 100 tourists from the Atlantic to the Gulf and the Pacific would prefer to going around the "Keys", thereby saving many hundreds of miles and—dollars, not to say anything of avoiding the dangers of the storm-tossed coast, but feeling during the entire trip as safe as on land.

All visiting members of the Masonic Fraternity in St. Cloud and vicinity are invited to be the guests of the St. Cloud Lodge on tomorrow evening, when a class of six candidates will receive the Master Mason degree. This degree, which contains some of the most impressive ceremonies of the Blue Lodge, always attracts members of the fraternity, and it is hoped by the officers of the Lodge that a better attendance will be present on this occasion to great one of the largest classes that has received the degree in the St. Cloud Lodge.

Among the distinguished visitors will be Leonard S. Thornton, District Deputy Grand Master, of Orlando, as well as several other visitors from Orlando and Kissimmee.

The lodge will be opened promptly at 7:30 o'clock with the usual business session, to be followed by the Chamber of Commerce Accepts Invitation Extended By Melbourne

Another of the many crowd attended Chamber of Commerce functions, Wednesday night, was a most enjoyable one, and Yuma, Yuma, Yuma, Yuma, Yuma. The following guests were in attendance: Mr. H. L. Green introduced Mr. J. J. Johnson, of West Palm Beach, who, a previous guest, and, surprise at being at this meeting and seeing such a splendid enthusiastic crowd, especially at this time of year. And after several years' association with Mr. Green, thought him very foolish, when he said he was leaving West Palm Beach to come to St. Cloud, but when seeing him in St. Cloud, and seeing the beautiful lake and meeting the people of this city he had decided that Mr. Green had made a splendid choice.

Dr. L. V. Coleman, of the Holston's Pharmacy, introduced his brother-in-law, C. L. Wheat and D. C. Wheat, of Miami, who are opening the Men's Toggery, in St. Cloud. The Junior member of the firm, acting as spokesman, said that after a visit here about a year ago they were impressed with the possibilities of St. Cloud, and with the hospitality of the people and the co-operative spirit and decided to visit in Miami and move to St. Cloud, which they are now doing. He said they hoped to become members of the Chamber of Commerce and take a part in all movements for the betterment of the city.

Dr. L. R. Seymour introduced Mr. H. G. Weiland, a recent arrival in the city, who was also more than pleased to be in attendance at the meeting and as he is establishing a business here, will wish to become a member of this organization and all its stands for. On motion of Mrs. Foster all these gentlemen were gladly received as members.

On the song card was the song "Johnny, Johnny", which President Landis suggested appropriate after Mr. Wheat's remarks.

Capt. J. H. Crawford introduced his brother-in-law, H. T. Glines, of Hollywood, Fla.

Secretary Kelsey announced that he would like to see the golf committee at the close of meeting. Lemor Trickle was added to the golf committee.

Mr. H. L. Green reported that the work was going forward on clearing out the canal in fine shape and to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

A copy of the traffic regulation which contains information of interest to all motorists, was at the plate of each one in attendance. These are for free distribution and can be secured at the Chamber of Commerce.

An invitation for the St. Cloud Chamber of Commerce to go to Melbourne was Thursday afternoon with two weeks notice, was accepted and a committee composed of A. J. Gaiser, Mrs. M. P. Foster and J. Westport was appointed to make arrangement for the trip. It is the desire of the committee that all who wish to go, will report to one of the committee, and that every one, who can take their car, will also let it be known. It will be announced at the next meeting at the Chamber of Commerce just when the trip will be made.

Secretary Kelsey also announced that C. R. Dawley had made an offer

Bank of Saint Cloud Committee Makes Statement to Depositors

Every day people are asking when the bank will re-open. We wish we could tell them and name a definite day, but that is not possible just yet. And it is all because a comparatively few people have been slow in signing and returning the card approving the plan adopted by the depositors.

At the time of this writing about 50 per cent of the deposits have been signed. Three-fourth of the unsigned amount is represented by ten persons in St. Cloud and vicinity. The other one-fourth is represented by about fifty persons, most of whom are scattered throughout the North.

As the case now stands it would appear that if the St. Cloud people have the deciding vote as to whether the bank opens or goes in the hands of a receiver.

The Depositors' Committee have been diligent in the work entrusted to them. They have given both time and money to the task, and there is nothing more they can do until these cards are signed.

FIRE EXTINGUISHERS HAVE ARRIVED

After a visit of the representative of the State Hotel Commission notifying all apartment, rooming house and hotel of the ruling that a fire extinguisher is placed in each one, the different owners applied to the city commission for the assistance in this matter, and the extinguishers were ordered and will be ready for delivery on application at the city hall by Saturday. This matter should be taken care of immediately.

R. R. Catman, of Narcoossee, was a caller at this office Wednesday.

DO NOT MISS PROGRAM AT G. A. R. HALL, AUGUST 28

Do not fail to hear the program given under the auspices of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Saturday afternoon, August 28th at 2 o'clock in the lower G. A. R. Hall. Those taking part are "Boys" in their nighties and boy scouts. This will be a program that no other city in Florida is able to have.

Let's show the St. Cloud spirit and appreciation by our presence. The entertainment is free unless you feel disposed to drop a coin in the basket to help pay overhead expenses.

VETERANS MEETING

On August 21, President Lathrop opened the meeting with the singing of the first and last verses of America.

Comrade Keeney offered the prayer, and the balance of the opening ceremonies were all observed.

A suggestion was made that some means be taken to change the name of our regular Saturday afternoon meetings. This question is open for some thought and discussion.

On next Saturday, August 28th, the Daughters of the Union Veterans will have charge of the program. This promises to be one that will be well worth hearing.

Mrs. Jennie Tucker under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. was in charge of the social hour. Instrumental music by Mrs. Nettie Clark, "When the Church Bells Chime" and "Under the Polar Star."

Recitation by little Alice Stevens,
Comrade Campbell, "The Pioneer's Attitude of Temperance," and also a song "Tribute to Forever," which brought much applause from the listeners.

Exercise by fourteen small girls,
"Children's Jubilee Song."

Reading by Mrs. Nina Carey Ham-mell.

Music by Comrades Kenney and Bouchamp on the "bones" accompanied by Mrs. Nettie Clark.

Reading by Mrs. L. M. Parker,
"Christian Citizenship."

"White Ribbon Rally Song" by members of the Union.

Comrade Lathrop gave a reading,
"Get the Right Man for the Enforcement of Laws."

Solo by Comrade Russell, "God
Speed the Light," also "The Low Back Car."

Reading by Mrs. Ribbe, "If We Only Understand."

"The Master is Coming" by Mrs.
Beall.

President Lathrop sang "An Old Time Temperance Song."

The Star Spangled Banner.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The W. C. T. U. held its regular meeting at the Temple last Friday with twenty members present. The meeting was called to order by the president. After the scripture reading and singing a nominating committee was appointed and officers for the ensuing year were elected. The nominating committee were: Mes-sieurs L. M. Parker, Ward, and William. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Francis
Brand, Vice-President, at Large, Mrs.
Nettie Benedict, Secretary, Mrs. Lottie
Wheeler, Treasurer, Mrs. James
Marlin, Corresponding Secretary, Mrs.
Nina Hammel, Press Correspondent,
Mrs. May-Pickett Foster.

The collection was $1.51. The meeting adjourned to meet again September 1st.

No Room For Jealousy Between California and Florida, Says Hervey

Charles B. Hervey, of California, prominent hotel man and formerly of Florida, arrived in Jacksonville on July 13 from New York and will be the guest here for several days of his nephew, the Rt. Rev. Frank A. Julian, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Florida, before leaving for a tour of the state.

Mr. Hervey has just returned from a tour of Europe with a party of more than 200 hotel men and women, being accompanied by Mrs. Hervey, whom he will join in New York after his visit to Florida and return to California, he is at the Hotel Windsor.

The purpose of Mr. Hervey's visit here is to look into the possibility of acquiring a hotel in Florida, he stated.

No Room for Jealousy

"It is my opinion," Mr. Hervey said, "that there should be absolutely no feeling of competitive jealousy between Florida and California. They both have their advantages. As resorts and playgrounds they have much in common. Florida being on the extreme eastern coast and California at the jumping off place on the west, both can grow in greatness on their own merits. Therefore I would like to see a more friendly spirit between them and I think it would be fine if Floridians would pay a visit, especially in the summer when, in San Francisco, it is cold enough for overcoats. On the other hand, Californians would enjoy your balmy winters, your brilliant moonlight, your fine climate, and incidentally, your good grapefruit."

This is Mr. Hervey's first visit to Florida in seven years and he expressed himself as being astounded at the marvellous growth of Jacksonville.

In reference to his trip abroad Mr. Hervey stated that he believed that a closer bond had been made between the United States and foreign nations by the friendly visit of hotel leaders. The party, he said, was accorded extraordinary honors by the hotel fraternity and was received by the president of France, the king of Belgium, the president of the Swiss confederation, the president of Germany, the king of Italy, Premier Mussolini and the Pope.

Extensive Holidays

Mr. Hervey before leaving Florida in 1920 was made a life member of the Florida Press Association. He is now president of the California Hotel Association, and is owner of the following hotels in California: the Green, in Pasadena; the Stowell, in Los Angeles; and the Maryland, in Pasadena. He is also affiliated with the Lincara Hotel System of California which operates the Fairmont and Whitecomb, in San Francisco; the Tavern, Lake Tahoe, San Bernardino, El Encanto, in Santa Barbara; the Huntington and Vista del Arroyo, in Pasadena; and the Winthrop, in Tacoma, Wash. Mr. Hervey is an old time friend of Robert Mayer, owner and of Jack Kavanaugh, manager of the Windsor hotel, this city.

For a number of years Mr. Hervey was proprietor of the San Carlos hotel, Pensacola, and the Raffle House, Mobile, Ala.—Jacksonville Times-Union.

Vacation Without Auto Impossible; Every Year Sees Greater Growth

By Roy C. Hayes

DETROIT, Mich., July 10.—With its toes on the accelerator, road maps in hand and a well stocked large aboard motorist America looks forward to vacation time this year with a heart full of expectancy.

New ribbons of concrete stretching to the nation's beauty spots—and they are legion—inspire the work-bound citizen with an irresistible urge to climb in and breeze away—anywhere, for every nook in the nation beckons the tourist.

The automobile industry's great gifts to the vacationist—in a badge of freedom and individuality, a key that reveals to the tourist remote enchanted places, flame ridden spots and the din and stir of great cities, as well as high, commanding mountains, flower-laden valleys, field and stream, how the authority of the motor car.

The unparalleled flexibility of the automobile allows for a tailor-made vacation. It has spelled the dawn of alarm clocks, time tables and vending machines, happily substituting the go as you please style that makes for the perfect vacation.

Day and night, in good weather and bad it stands at attention, awaiting the owner's pleasure. It is the only instrument which the vacationist finds indispensable, the one comfortable means of individual transportation.

Increase Yearly

Any doubt about its standing as a vacation necessity flickers out in picturing a vacation without an automobile impossible.

To America's 21,000,000 (twenty-one million) motorists the statement sounds as proof. Highways and byways paved roads and country lanes, rubber-tracked and car worn give evidence of the universal popularity of a motor car vacation.

Each succeeding year witnesses growth in the number of motor car vacationists. According to the A. A. A., 1926 will establish another new record in this regard. Motor tourists will spend five billion dollars this year, it is said.

Several thousand paved miles have been added to the country's highway system in the last year. Good roads are recognized on all sides as the hall mark of progress. They disseminate happiness, health and money.

Dust, the scourge of touring in years past has been beaten and chased by paved roads that are setting the country in checker board fashion. Witness the padding of touring coats and goggles.

Highways are better marked than ever; fuel and service facilities have been extended nearly 100 per cent in the last two years, reliable touring information is available in the thousands of motor clubs that dot the country.

Trans-continental highways, advocated by William Randolph Hearst as long ago as 1909, are coming into being. A network of longitudinal interesting motor ways are a part of Uncle Sam's billion dollar highway scheme.

Some "Do's" and "Don'ts"

So many tables of "do's and don'ts" have been compiled for motorists that the average person is apt to disregard them. A few should be borne in mind are the following:

On tour inspect your car every morning. Watch your gas, oil and tires. Don't take a chance on getting repair work done after leaving your base in the morning. Have your car thoroughly inspected before you leave home.

Don't give a lift to a stranger. Several thousand motorists fell victims to highway tramps last year.

Get your maps and complete touring information before you leave, don't depend on expensive touring advice.

Don't speed, it's the steady, consistent pace that gets you there in the shortest time.

Carry a tow rope for an emergency. Vacation time—that welcome period that marks the beginning of a new fiscal and physical year for all of us—gives an added delight to automobile ownership.

Use your car and be independent.

Reciprocal Arrangement Between States on 1926 Auto License Tags

New residents of Florida owning motor cars which bear the license plates of other states are in for a bunch of trouble if the limit of time which such tags are allowed to be used in Florida has expired, says the Florida state Chamber of Commerce. State License Inspectors, the Chamber has been advised, have begun a checking of foreign tags after clearing up the situation presented by the use on Florida cars of 1925 tags and local automobile clubs are assisting in the work.

Incidentally another phase of the tag situation is referred to by the Chamber. Many new residents, although their cars bear the Florida tag are still carrying tags of other states a year or two old on the front of their machines as a tribute to their old home or to let folks know that the occupant has come to Florida. From Illinois, Ohio, Hawaii or some other far away section, it has been held that the display of an automobile tag with any but the current date is a violation of the law and even an old Florida tag will get a motorist into trouble although his car may also bear a 1926 license plate. Out of date tags, the Chamber declares, have been the cause of much trouble all over the state to traffic officers who, seeing a car with a 1924 or 1925 tag cruising down the highway, about face their motorcycle seat and after wasting a quarter of an hour discover that it also carries the current plate.

For the information of motorists operating cars with tags issued by other states those of only the following are good in Florida for a period of twelve months, because of reciprocal arrangements between Florida and those commonwealths:

Alabama, District of Columbia, Delaware, Idaho, (except trucks of one ton or more capacity), Kentucky, Maine, Montana, Nebraska, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Virginia, Washington and Wisconsin.

The tags of other states can be used in Florida for the following periods:

Arizona, four months; Arkansas 90 days; California 6 months; Colorado 90 days; Connecticut 15 days; Georgia 30 days; Illinois 6 months; Indiana 90 days; Iowa 90 days; Kansas 90 days; Louisiana 90 days; Maryland 90 days; Massachusetts 30 days; Michigan 90 days (commercial vehicles 10 days); Minnesota 90 days, provided application for permit is made within 10 days; otherwise vehicles are taxed after 10 days; Mississippi 30 days; Nevada 90 days; New Hampshire 20 days; New Jersey 15 days; New Mexico 90 days; North Carolina 90 days; Oklahoma 90 days; Oregon 90 days; Rhode Island 30 days; South Carolina 30 days; Tennessee 30 days; Texas 30 days; may be extended to 90 days by payment of $1; Utah 90 days; Vermont 90 days; West Virginia 90 days; Wyoming 90 days.

THE "REPUBLIC" OF FLORIDA

By GONG, HERBERT J. DRANE
In National Republic Magazine

In 1811, when friendly negotiations were being conducted between the United States and the Spanish authorities in Florida, looking to the cession of Florida to the United States, the negotiations being conducted with the greatest secrecy by Col. John McKee and General Mathews, of Georgia, as commissioners, under President Madison, Congress then sitting in secret session, authorized the president that in the event it should appear that any foreign power intended to seize Florida, the President should take forcible possession thereof. Notwithstanding the secrecy of the negotiations, the news reached the public and caused widespread interest in the extreme south.

Georgia being most interested, many Georgia frontiersmen assembled on the banks of the St. Mary's River, the dividing line between Florida and Georgia, and here they united with the border settlers of American birth on the Florida side of the river and founded the independent "Republic of Florida." General John H. Macdonald was elected president of the republic and Colonel Ashley his military chief.

Meanwhile General (Commander) Mathews determined to occupy Fernandina and Amelia Island, and on the ground of protecting American shipping, he made use of the patriot forces of the so-called Republic of Florida and occupied Fernandina Harbor with nine ships of war, demanding the surrender of Don Jose Lopez, the commanding Spanish officer. There was nothing else to do under the circumstances, so on March 17, 1812, the surrender was accomplished, articles of capitulation were signed, and Fernandina became an American port of entry free for all vessels, except that in case of war between the United States and England no English ship should enter there after May 1, 1813. Then, almost immediately, St. Augustine was occupied by the combined forces of the United States and the republic, after a sharp encounter, and Florida for a brief period came under the flag of the republic.

Naturally, the Spanish minister at Washington, when this came to his attention, made a vigorous protest against this rude invasion of the territory of a friendly power, and in this he was joined by the British minister, who doubtless could see the advantage accruing to England, if England, he said, could, upon some terms, occupy Florida, the nation at the time being at war with the United States.

President Madison repudiated the action of General (Commander) Mathews, declaring that he had gone far beyond his instructions, and he was, therefore, summarily removed and his place filled by Governor Mitchell of Georgia, who had orders to restore the before-war status, and to assist the Spanish governor, Escriba, in securing order. There was more or less desultory fighting, finally terminating by the withdrawal of the invading troops.

About 1812 a party of Georgians, under General Harris, carried a surveying party to the Alachua District, where they were all murdered by a roving band of savages. The survivors' notes conveyed to George I. E. Clarke, surveyor-general for the Spanish government, the basis for the future land grants in Alachua and Marion Counties.

Governor Mathews was superseded by General Pickens, but no further operations were carried on, although Florida was virtually a conquered province. The Spanish planters gave up in despair and, abandoning their plantations, moved to St. Augustine. The actual removal of the invading troops was accomplished in the spring of 1813.

The British of Canada, in the spring of 1812, sent Tecumseh, the great Shawnee chief, to the Indians of the far south for the purpose of fomenting strife and if possible, bringing on a war between the Indians of the south and the white settlers. He met with marked success among the Seminoles, and from this beginning grew the long Florida Indian wars and thus brought about the advent of General Andrew Jackson in Florida.

England, through consanguinity with Spanish authorities, occupied Pensacola, and when General Jackson entered a formal protest to Governor Marbury against allowing the British to occupy the fortifications, the governor replied in an insulting manner "that Jackson shall hear from me shortly." Jackson thereupon advanced upon Pensacola from Mobile with 3,000 men, together with a band of friendly Choctaws. After demanding and being refused the surrender of Pensacola, he captured it by assault, but not before the principal fortifications had been destroyed by the British and the Spanish. The British retreating on the 9th of November, 1813, after having accomplished his purpose at Pensacola, Jackson set out for New Orleans where, on the 8th of January, 1815, he had fought the battle of New Orleans.

In 1818, at one of the numerous outbreaks of the Seminoles, Jackson being then in Tennessee, the United States government ordered him and General Gaines to proceed against the Seminoles with 800 regulars and 1,000 militia, to be increased, if necessary, by requisitions upon the governors of neighboring states.

Jackson soon had his men in the field in the Indian fastnesses of east Florida, and in a campaign of six weeks crushed them.

He found in one of their villages 300 scalps of white men, women and children, fifty of them being fresh and dripping with blood. This so outraged him that shortly thereafter, when he captured Alexander Arbuthnot and Robert Armbrister, both white British subjects, and upon the judgment of a military court found them guilty of "aiding and abetting" the enemy Indians, Jackson hanged them both, though the court had reduced the sentence in one instance to "flog and chain at hard labor for twelve months."

He afterwards received censure for this act, there being much agitation in Congress, and a committee of the Senate condemned all his acts, but especially the capture of St. Marks and Pensacola and the execution of Arbuthnot and Armbrister. It was also sought to impeach him in a land speculation at Pensacola before he occupied the city, but this attempt failed. Congress did not expressly disavow Jackson's conduct, but held itself ready to return west Florida to Spain whenever a force should appear to occupy Pensacola.

This was accomplished in September, 1819, and the American forces, under Jackson, peacefully withdrew both from the city and the Port of Pensacola. A treaty had already been made, however, for the cession of west Florida to the United States, so the appearance of the Spanish governor and armed forces was merely a gesture to save the pride of Spain rather than for permanent occupation. The total cost to the United States for the entire Florida area was $6,480,708 for 50,288 square miles of territory, or about fourteen cents per acre.

When the cession was finally arranged in detail, the President appointed General Jackson as provincial governor of "the Florida" both east and west, and the new first governor with his wife officially appeared at Pensacola on July 17, 1821, and with the Spanish governor made the transfer complete.

Of course it was understood that this appointment was not for the bestowal of greater dignity upon the general, who had already climbed to the heights in the minds and hearts of the people, but was doubtless intended as a balm for his feelings wounded in the Congressional action before mentioned.

The duties of the office were distasteful to him after he had learned that the patronage to be distributed to his friends was very limited. He resigned as governor and returned to Tennessee with his wife in October, 1821, having held the office about three months. His wife referred to it as "our wild goose chase."

Clerk displaced the military government of Florida on March 2nd, 1822, when William P. Duval, of Kentucky, was appointed governor.

The seat of government was first at Pensacola, but driven out by yellow fever. The seat was fifteen miles north of the city, thence to St. Joe, St. Augustine in 1822, and finally, in 1823, the permanent seat of government was fixed at Tallahassee, a former Indian village, about equidistant from Pensacola and St. Augustine. Then a capital building was erected by the United States government in 1844 at a cost of about $85,000. Florida was admitted as a state on March 3, 1845.

The original plan of this building is generally supposed to have been suggested by General Jackson, who became President in 1829. It was a replica in miniature of the capitol at Washington as the Washington capitol was then. In after years the capitol at Washington had two wings and a dome added. In 1860, it becoming necessary to enlarge the capitol at Tallahassee, a commission was provided by the legislature and appointed by Governor Jennings for such enlargement. The writer was one of these commissioners, and the plan adopted was suggested by the wings of the capitol at Washington, and again a replica in miniature was made of the capitol at Washington, the work being finished in 1863.

During the construction of the north wing at the capitol the ground caved in under the north wing at one point and then it was discovered that a great cave, lined on floor and walls, and vaulted with brick, and then sealed from the inside so as to be completely hidden, had been a part of the original capitol and never used nor was it known by the people of this generation. The hiding place was doubtless for the safe-keeping of valuable state records in the event of enemy invasion.

So rapid has been the growth of the state that again about three years ago the capitol was enlarged, this time by the addition of two fronts, east and west, giving the building the form of a cross.

Within the present year, so rapid has been the growth of the state's

Northern Hot Wave

Thousands of people slept in the parks of Chicago on the night of August 5 on account of the heat.

The Lord's Sabbath

And the Lord spoke unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, Verily, my Sabbath ye shall keep; for it is a sign between me and you throughout your generations; that ye may know that I am the Lord that doth sanctify you.—Exodus 31:12-13.

Auto Thefts

According to the insurance companies there were 250,000 automobiles during 1925, valued at $218,000,000, in the United States, based on the average value of $875 each. The loss from stealing automobiles is now well organized. It is estimated that four out of every five cars stolen were recovered.

On the War Path

Donat Van Horn of the Pink Chronicle is on the war path after "black-masters, slanders, buffooneries, windbags, four flushers, gamblers and parasites," who have been misrepresenting Florida. He has "drawn his sword" and the first thrust, and a deep one, was made in the August issue of the Chronicle.

High Cost of Sunburn

Dr. C. P. Patel, professor of skin diseases at Green Point hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., warns bathers at the sea beaches from over exposure to gain a case of tan. He considers lying in the sand for hours a dangerous practice. Sunburns are often painful, he says, and may result in death. Thousands of working days are lost every summer by persons in hospitalization by the foolishness of trying to get a heavy coat of tan.

Bank for Safety Only

The automobile here shouldn't be used for anything save safety purposes. Don't signal to attract the attention of people inside houses. The last words of a person dying in a Jacksonville home not long ago were rendered inaudible by the honking of a horn on an automobile standing in front of an adjoining house. Remember some folks sleep at all hours of the day, some are sick and nervous, and honking may annoy them.

Hand Book for Florida Growers and Shippers

A new edition of this useful publication has just appeared from the printing department of the State School for Boys at Marianna. It would be hard to duplicate in the same space the information presented concerning the leading crops of Florida. It answers many questions of importance. It was prepared by Neil Rhodes, assistant commissioner of the state marketing bureau at Jacksonville. Copies can be had by addressing the State Department of Agriculture, Tallahassee.

Largest Inland Lake

Lake Okechobee is often named as the largest inland body of fresh water in this country. Then some one mentions Lake Michigan, the latter being bordered by four states. If being the largest inland lake, in the sense of being wholly within one state, then Lake Okechobee is it. On a map of Florida issued in 1923, our big lake was marked off as Lagoos Mayax. No settlements were then indicated on the peninsula south of St. Augustine. The only other large lake entirely within one state to dispute size with Okechobee is Red Lake in Northern Minnesota.

Sell Wood By Weight

Wood for fuel should be sold by weight instead of by cord measure, for the heating value depends not upon the bulk of the wood, but upon its weight, say foresters of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Bulletin 1351. A pound of dry wood of one species has about as much heating value as a pound of any other species, but two cords may vary 100 per cent in their value for heating. The bulletin contains many suggestions as to how to develop and handle the wood-lot to best advantage. How to produce wood, how to sell it, and how to use it are all covered in a practical way.

Unfriendly

Senator Tamm is at his home in Lakeland and says that he is opposed to this country going into the world court, and noted the unfriendly spirit of the French people towards American visitors in France and also their lack of appreciation for America's liberal spirit in the proposed world debt settlement. France is not satisfied at the liberality of this country cancelling the money advanced during the war nor at our proposition to have them pay only the loans after the war. The senator might have noted that history shows that France has never been friendly to America and that our sacrifices during the World war were wasted.

Storm Centers

Florida has occasional severe storms but like all regions along the ocean, storms are not as frequent and severe as in localities remote from the equalizing influences of huge bodies of water. According to the United States Weather Bureau the centers of convection are subject to more variations of heat and cold than the sea coasts. The belt of weather uncertainty in this country is Kansas. Subject as it is to Ogden storms, sand storms, snow, hail, sleet, and other atmospheric irregularities. It may also be an item of interest to some to learn that the weather bureau says thunder storms are in progress somewhere on the face of the earth all the time, a continuous performance.

AMERICAN FRYS

When frying potatoes, use but little fat and a heavy skillet. Let all the pieces brown on one side before turning them and cook only enough at a time to cover the bottom of the skillet in a thin layer.

"Carrying Water on Both Shoulders"

It doesn't pay to be a coward in politics, says the Wichita Beacon, discussing the recent Kansas state primary.

Says the Beacon: "The pale patriot who wanted both the Klan support and the anti-Klan support, who played a neutral game, who went good naturedly wagging along like the tail of a shepherd dog, didn't get anywhere. The men who had the nerve to stand for the Klan or to stand against it had good fighting all along the line. The Klan ran second, it is true, but the good-Lord, good-devil chap ran third everywhere, without a single exception, so far as the good state offices were concerned."

This is true of other communities and other states as well as Kansas. Candidates trying to "carry water on both shoulders," usually fail to get away with it. In this day of clear-cut issues, office-seekers find it foolish to assume a "neutral" attitude—before election day.

The local situation in Osceola County politics has assumed a rather awkward state, when some men that have been identified with either the Democratic or Republican parties, but who failed to go into a primary election as provided by state law, allow a remnant of the old County Republican organization to induce them to become candidates under the head "Independent."

Some of the men named at the recent meeting at Attorney Parker's office are, or were, good party men in both the Republican or Democratic ranks, but their political aspiration seem not to have been fully developed for the primary in June.

Now, under the head of "Independent" they are announced. The result will be interesting.

Valentino was frequently seen on the screen and in person by millions, who known at sight and loved by them, while comparatively few had seen Dr. Elliott or would recognize his photograph. One devoted a long life to public affairs and the serious studies of life, the other found his place in fanciful entertainment. One appealed to the intellect, the other to the emotions.

Valentino was frequently seen on the screen and in person by millions, who known at sight and loved by them, while comparatively few had seen Dr. Elliott or would recognize his photograph. One devoted a long life to public affairs and the serious studies of life, the other found his place in fanciful entertainment. One appealed to the intellect, the other to the emotions.

The daily paper is concerned primarily with the things of today, the sensation of the present, the news of the hour. Valentino was a man of the present and his death was not long anticipated. Dr. Elliott was of the type whose footsteps, in the words of Longfellow, "echo through the corridors of time." It was natural for daily papers to give prominence to the death of the popular actor while the passing of the renowned educator received ordinary attention.

The press of the present is giving Valentino his due. Later history will give Dr. Elliott his just recognition. Each was successful in his own line.

Here is something that might well be considered by our own law makers. The Illinois Lake (Chicago) Press-Tribune says:

"Members of the Iowa legislature are considering a law compelling every driver of an automobile to carry emergency insurance. Admitting that Iowa already has too many laws, here's one more that might be added with benefit to all. To turn a driver loose on the streets with a defective automobile and no protection for anyone he might hit, maim or kill is decidedly unjust to the public. Before a man or woman is given a license to drive it should be ascertained that he is financially responsible for any destruction he may cause and that any damage done will be made good insofar as money restitution will do it. Insurance in a good company solves the problem. It should be made compulsory."

"Do you take the St. Cloud Tribune?"

"Yes."

"I like to read that Junk Pile."

"I think it is written by the Secretary of our Chamber of Commerce."

"I don't know who writes it, but he hits the nail on the head; I like to read it."

This conversation between two ladies was overheard on this avenue a few evenings ago.

According to his friends, Representative E. C. Lewis, of Gulf county,

ST. CLOUD TRAFFIC RULES PUBLISHED

ST. CLOUD, Aug. 25.—The Chamber of Commerce of this city has published a brochure on the traffic regulations of the city, written in more or less colloquial form, which it is sending out in all its letters, the idea being to assure the visiting motorist that the police force of St. Cloud is there for the purpose of helping rather than hindering the traveling man in the car. Under the guidance of Mayor C. C. Outlaw, the local force is rapidly gaining for itself the reputation of being at once one of the most efficient and at the same time helpful in the stranger in the central part of the state.—Orlando Sentinel.

SURVEY OF NEW GOLF COURSE IS FINISHED

ST. CLOUD, Aug. 25.—A topographical survey of the new golf course was completed this morning by City Engineer Trickle, and bids for the construction of the links building will be asked for within the next two weeks.

The course lies on the present highway 24, about midway between St. Cloud and Kissimmee, and will be available for play by late fall. —Orlando Sentinel.

An evangelist in New York flays those who are "heaven bent," and says Christians who are good simply to get to heaven have a philosophy that is all wrong, and it is a terrible thing to have as their only thought the belief that they are going to heaven. THE JUNK PILE

By "CAP"

There was one sight last week when it was so hot that when one tried to shove it was necessary to turn on the electric fan to keep the ladies from drying up on one's face, still at that this summer season in St. Cloud has been pretty comfortable, and we don't have the miles and miles of hot pavement to hold the heat all day and all night as they do in the larger cities of the north.

When you ever go Michigan avenue in Chicago? On a hot day it is the hottest place there is in the world, and when the wind comes a rushing in from the east in the winter it is the coldest.

Of course, the only place with even a half way decent climate in the north is New York anyway.

Who missed the ball game last Saturday? Well, they missed the best, and the most thrilling game of the season, and when Shirley decided that things had gone far enough, and that it was time for supper he pulled the ball in the orange grove back of his field, and the St. Cloud readers went home rejoicing.

We have seen many cases of poor judgment during our four hundred and twenty-three years of existence, but the ultimate of stupid misjudgment was when Bristol, the All Star catcher, had the idea he wanted to start a mess with Godwin, who was inspiring Bristol just wanted to that was all. Nothing really happened except that St. Petersburg was short his services from that time on.

The most weekly pilgrimage of the officers to Davenport came off this week. If only people will quit saying "It can't be done" and substitute "Let's try to do it," we will have a course in this city within the next two months.

Leon Lamb has offered the land on such a basis that the club will start out without any heavy loaded indebtedness hanging over its head. The site is within three miles of the city on high and dry land and can be reached by a hard road all the way. The course, thanks to the natural lay of the land can be put in for mighty little money, and all that remains to do is to snap out of this "can't be done" attitude and go to it.

Fifteen years ago they said there never would be a highway between Jax and Tampa. It couldn't be done because there were too many obstacles to be overcome, and right now, not only is the road built, but they are double tracking it in many parts to handle the traffic.

Among other duties it is found that every bird requires every condition each morning. We are hurrying to white through our first week and get as the old hands used to do.

Captain Clarke, recent star of the St. Cloud, this week. He went over the site of the golf course and says that we have a layout the turf of which will beat that of Davenport so far as greens are concerned within two months after work is started. The Captain has just finished the Howey-

Saw a New Mexico license yesterday on Teuth street, and the car looked like it had come from there all the way. However, no matter how the vehicle looks, we are glad to see the visitors begin rolling in. Let's be sure to live up to our slogan and have our greeting be as genial as we say it is.

There is a pile of brush on Teuth Street not far from Olds that adds greatly to the appearance of the city. Those passing through don't help but be impressed with the way we are cleaning up and cannot help but commend our judgment in making a public dump on our main thoroughfare. Also if the brush is to be burned at some later date, the fact might suggest that the conflagration should take place right near a lumber yard to be commended.

A vendicative team composed of one McElmole and Abraham Finkestein was introduced the other night as "Harp and Jew harp." Of course, it was "Jew," who pulled a line like that.

What with the janitor absent and the assistant away the Honorable Secretary has been a busy person these days, and if anyone wants to know an excellent way to exercise, try the business end of a broom.

"Dynamite Jack" seduced the Secretary to go look and see the new wharf at the Yacht Club the other day. Now that wharf is going to be great stuff and a big improvement on the one that was washed away during the storm, but when you step on an allegedly solid plank, and it gently turns over, and you spot the last pair of white rumpers that there are in the world, tours of inspection are no so good.

Anyone got a barrel that isn't working?

Between sweeping and taking care of cupboards and all that sort of thing we are getting very domesticated these days.

Somebody asked if the sign at Teuth and New York which says "see our lake" referred to the pond by the station. Perhaps pond is a euphemism, and hole might be better. Still a room by any other name and all the rest of it, but can't that hole be filled? It gives a mighty bad impression to a new comer and at the same time it may have a tendency to spoil our mosquito record.

When ideas run so short that there is nothing to write about except yourself it's time to stop. See you all next week.

Citizens Should Do Duty Promptly

There are quite a number of people in the city who owe water and light bills for a long time. Conditions have been such that the city has not, and does not feel that anyone should be deprived of the necessary services on account of conditions beyond anyone's control. It will be very much appreciated if those that do owe bills for some time—to whom statements have been given—will come in to the City Hall after the meters have been read the first of September, and make some arrangements about these bills. The city must have the money to operate, especially as the fiscal year is coming to a close and with the help and co-operation of those benefitted, we should be able to show a prosperous year. We are not asking anyone to sacrifice but if the people who owe will just come in and make some kind of arrangements that can be counted on, it will not be necessary to cut light and water service. You will find that we are willing to meet you more than half way, if you will just come in and make some arrangements.

He who makes too big a show
By reckless spending, soon will go;
And when he's squandered all his cash
It dawns on him he's been too rash.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

A birthday dinner was given in honor of Miss Ima Mae Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wright at their home on Virginia avenue and Eleventh street, Friday, August 19th.

Covers were laid for the following: Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Wood and daughter, Miss Alpha, Mrs. Martha Norris and daughter, Miss Bertha, Mr. L. L. Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. John Wright and daughter, Misses Ima Mae and Erna Loomer.

The evening was spent in music, visiting and feasting on watermelon. Miss Wright was the recipient of many useful tokens of remembrance.

The guests left at a late hour after wishing Miss Wright many happy returns of the day.

DINNER PARTY

Mrs. Samuel Warren Lachey was hostess to a group of friends at dinner last Wednesday at her splendid home on Indiana avenue.

Pink roses were effectively arranged on the table and throughout the house. Place cards, which were pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Lachey's home, bore the names of Mesdames Geraldine Litcher, Nettie Severn, Lou Crum, Annette Conklin, Dorothy James, Bertha Mann, and Misses Louise Hays, Alma Kline, Anna and May Hoppe.

Games and stunts provided the amusement for the evening.

PHILATHEA-BARACA PARTY

The barometer of the Philathea-Baraca Sunday school class, of the First Baptist church indicates high pressure in the contest that is being waged between the young ladies on one side and the young men on the other. The line of battle is being so closely drawn and each foot of ground is being so hotly contested that it would take more guesses than one to tell who is going to be the winner. At present the boys have the advantage and nothing but a ninth inning rally by the girls in the last inning of the game next Sunday can save them from defeat.

The boys are just as determined that no surprises shall be pulled on them, consequently every man is at his place and ready for an "air tight" finish.

To the victors belong the spoils, the losing side gives the winners a banquet.

SEWING SOCIETY FOR ORPHANAGE

The Ladies Sewing Society for the orphanage will meet this week with Mrs. James Goff, on North Indiana avenue. All ladies interested in the noble philanthropic work are requested to attend.

CHICKEN DINNER

Mrs. Lydia Cery invited some friends to spend the day and engage treated to an old fashioned chicken White dinner this morn they were also treated to an old fashioned dinner with all the "fixes."

Those who were so fortunate were Mesdames Ellen Ross, Flora Cox, Lillian Brewer and Emma Martin.

Florida Is Destined To Be Future Agricultural Empire Of the South

By WILLIAM M. JARDINE,
Secretary of Agriculture

"This is the first time, since I became secretary of agriculture, that I have had the opportunity to visit the entire part of the great south. Yet there is no part of the country that I enjoy more. I like to observe the increasing progress of your agriculture and industry. I like to meet you face to face and learn at first hand of your achievements and your problems. I appreciate your warm-hearted hospitality. I want you to know that your interests are my interests. I am anxious to do everything I can, and the Department of Agriculture is anxious to do everything it can, to benefit your agriculture. We believe in the south. We know that its progress is essential to national progress.

South's Contribution

"This south is today, as you well know, contributing to an enormous extent to the development of the economic life of the entire United States. While I recognize the commercial and industrial contributions of the south as remarkable achievements, I am, naturally, especially interested in agricultural progress. I know it better. I know, further, that agricultural progress is basic to every other sort of progress. I want to congratulate you here and now on the achievements registered by farming in the southern states. The south is paying increased attention to seed selection, to crop rotation, to the development of forage resources, to the building up of its livestock enterprises, and, perhaps most important, to better practices in connection with cotton. Despite the difficulties that farming has encountered in the last few years, you have stayed on the job, have improved your methods both as to production and as to marketing, and have continued to lay solid foundations.

"Too much can be said in praise of the individual farmer. He is the keystone of the arch. I can not overlook the accomplishments of the Farmers Union, to which many of you belong, and of other farm organizations. Some of the greatest farm organizations in this country took place in the south, and agricultural organizations in this region have enjoyed steady growth and interest. They have had their ups and downs, of course—you can not look for unbroken prosperity for any organization—but their record as a whole is a record of progress.

Wants Organization

"I believe in organization. I hope there will be more and more of it among farmers. We can solve problems together that we could not handle each by himself. More understanding, better cooperation in agricultural plans, and greater readiness to see each other's problems, are needs of the south as they are of every farm section. Support your organizations. If they don't always function in the way you think they should, try to re-your plans adopted. But work with the crowd, anyway.

"I am as strong a believer in organization that I am convinced that legislative relief for agriculture must, in proportion as it is to be effective, utilize farm organizations. I consider agriculture to be of such far-reaching importance as to justify the most careful study and effort on the part of the government to assist in solving its problems, but, at the same time, I am convinced that any assistance to be of maximum value must be such as can be taken advantage of by farmers working in either through their own organizations or their own problems.

"The bill establishing a division of cooperative marketing in the Department of Agriculture, which has passed the house of representatives with practically no opposition, will have, in my opinion, a permanently valuable effect upon cooperative organizations, and through them upon the farmers and farming. It will enable the farmer to get the best possible information concerning effective demand, and thus to a greater degree fit his production plans to market needs. It will also supply essential information on effective and ineffective practices in cooperation, thus giving the organizations a chance to improve their methods without employing the costly trial-and-error plan. This bill will promote better balanced production and more skillful marketing of agricultural products.

"Agriculture, however, is not dependent wholly on the plans of men. Weather conditions, insect pests, and other uncontrollable or partly uncontrollable factors enter in to disturb calculations. We are therefore slow to have from time to time a surplus in certain crops. Closer attention to adapting the production to the probable market will reduce the probability of surpluses, but may not eliminate them from the horizon altogether.

"The surplus problem is one which may come up in almost any field of production—fruit, cotton, livestock, tobacco, grain, dairy products, and other staples.

"As I have said, I believe that we shall accomplish a good deal by better management of production. We need also, however, better marketing and distribution. On this side legislation may enter in.

"There are, as I see it, three significant phrases to the problem: (1) The storage of a harvest pending consumption during the season and of storage for the carry-over; (2) the immediate problem of credit in every storage proposition, and (3) orderly control of the stream of supply to the consumer. We can solve the first two of these issues by better provision of facilities, the third only by collective action.

"I believe the central problem in this surplus question to be one of merchandising. From this it follows that legislative action should aim to supplement the efforts of farmer-controlled agencies and should enlarge their facilities by every possible and proper provision of credit, standardization, warehousing, and other facilities which will promote orderly distribution.

"I have consistently advocated a program of orderly merchandising through cooperative associations with the ultimate goal of stabilized prices. During a crop year farmers experience peaks and valleys in prices due to irregular flow of products to market. But over a relatively short number of years, production of most crops is generally in fairly close line with consumptive requirements. With more liberal credit from the government to cooperative associations, making it possible for them to achieve more orderly marketing, and to carry excess production from a time of plenty to a time of need, I am confident that real progress can be made in adjusting the marketing of farm crops to consumptive needs. Thus many glut and fluctuations will be ironed out and marked stabilization of prices accomplished.

"Looking to the sound and permanent progress of agriculture, therefore, I favor legislation that will enable the farmers through their organizations to help themselves. I believe that is what all thinking farmers want.

"I have, as perhaps you know, given my endorsement to the Tischer bill, now under consideration by the house of representatives. This bill provides for a farm marketing commission of seven men who would be thoroughly experienced in the handling of staple products. It provides that this board or commission shall be appointed by the president from men nominated by an advisory council. This council, in turn, is composed of 36 men, 3 from each of the 12 Federal Land Bank districts, and these would be elected by the bona fide farm organizations and cooperative marketing associations in each respective district. These farm organizations will choose the advisory council, and the advisory council will choose the federal board or commission. The machinery here in set up would be adequate and it would be genuinely responsive to the real needs and wishes of farmers.

"The Tischer bill further provides a revolving fund of $100,000,000 which would be based on liberal terms to cooperative marketing organizations to assist them in the orderly merchandising of their products.

Would Stabilize Prices

"This legislation will, in my judgment, pave the way for a better stabilization of prices than farmers have ever enjoyed before. It opens up the opportunity to check most of the gluts and fluctuations which upset the markets so disastrously. It will put resources in the hands of farmers such as have long been at the disposal of other business groups. It is not subsidy nor charity. It represents powerful and business-like aid applied at the point in the agricultural system where it can be really effective—that is, at the marketing end.

"I see little hope for any permanent solution of the surplus problem in subsidies, special taxes, or dumping programs. Even if we could temporarily set up some such artificial expedient the community at large would soon tear it down. I believe that the settlement of the substantial, thinking farmers of this country is all for such legislative action as will assure some real and permanent ground gained for agriculture.

"The Tischer bill it seems to me, offers a long forward step in our economic progress. It gives organized agriculture an added chance to make organization count where every farmer can feel its benefits—in his pocketbook. This legislation would promote economies of operation, the advantages of assembling, grading, credit, advertising, market expansion, and collective bargaining which now distinguish cooperative marketing. It would help all along the line.

"In short, while this legislation does not provide any panacea to cure all the ills of agriculture, it will render sound and effective aid in farmers' own efforts to help themselves.

"There are other legislative problems of special concern to agriculture apart from this surplus question. Some of these are of national scope; others must be handled by the states. There is the matter of reforestation, for instance, a subject of vital importance to many sections of the south. We must restore trees to lands that are needed for agriculture. There are problems of tax inequalities and of greater economy in government. It will be a fine thing if states and local communities will try to follow the economical example of the federal government. It is true that we demand from government many things that we used not to expect and these all cost money. They are doubtless of value to us, but we ought to insure that every dollar we expend brings in value received. Further, there are problems of tenancy, of rural education, of rural life in general, some of which are amenable to helpful legislative action. Farmers ought, it seems to me, to take more and more interest in legislative matters, not with the idea of increasing the number of laws, but of exercising a wise discrimination regarding legislative proposals.

"If legislation is to exert its maximum effect toward the economic and social betterment of agriculture, there must be efficiency on the individual farm. Producing must be economical, and must meet the consuming demands as to both quantity and quality. You residents of the south are rapidly increasing your agricultural efficiency. You are more and more adopting the practice of diversified farming. You have improved the crop varieties that you use. You have waged a winning fight against animal and plant pests. You have before you I am confident, a future of still greater efficiency.

Florida Diversified

"Florida, in particular, has adopted a program of marked diversification in farming. Such a program means better utilization of the soil, a steady agricultural income, and a more prosperous and more lasting agriculture.

"Those who speak of this state as if it were simply a citrus-producing region are far behind the times. Everyone knows the quantity and quality of the citrus fruits that come from Florida. They bring some $60,000,000 a year into the state. No one should overlook, however, the vegetables, the field crops, and the livestock of the state. Nearly $48,000,000 annually comes from vegetables, more than $30,000,000 from field crops and nuts, and nearly the same amount from livestock, dairy, and poultry products. Yet only a little more than two million acres are under cultivation. What an illustration this is of the productivity of the state!

"Florida produces more than 200 crops, including fruits and nuts, and eight of these are of commercial importance. This shows both the agricultural possibilities of the state and the progressive way in which they are being realized.

Bobbed Hair and Automobiles Help Make Church-Goer Worldly Minded

CHICAGO—Depavity, bobbed hair and the automobile today are the chief obstacles to Christian religion in America, said answers to an essay contest conducted by the Christian Advocate.

The contest, under direction of Dr. H. E. Lusk, contributing editor to the fifteen Christian Advocates of the Methodist Church, brought more than 600 essays deemed worthy of mention.

The Rev. Edwin A. Brown, first prize winner, found the modern spirit of materialism influencing the church and making the average churchgoer worldly minded. Dr. Brown is pastor of the Westminster Avenue Church, Akron, Ohio.

"Denominational and group selfishness undercut the unity of spirit and effort among American Christians," he wrote.

"There is an almost national reluctance to squarely face the major sins against humanity and Christianity today. Even Christian people refuse to take the necessary steps to adequately cope with war, race hatred, and industrial injustice."

An arrangement of futile discussion won second prize for Jennie L. Weston, Washington, D. C.

"Formalism and over-organization have become burdens," Miss Weston declared.

"Futile arguments among Christian leaders on non-essential points have developed a sort of education which gives but small place, and indeed, often ignores the teachings of Christianity.

"Failure on the part of Christians themselves to live their religion—to put it plainly, failure to practice what they preach—keeps from other the very tenets of the faith."

NOT SO COSTLY AFTER ALL

"More than 9,000,000 cattle in 342,000 herds, were tuberculosis-tested in the United States in the last 12 months. The total number of reactors was slightly under 3 per cent. In other words, tuberculosis was found in the proportion of one-third of an animal in every herd tested. It is self-evident that it is more economical to sacrifice one-third of an animal per herd now than to allow the disease to spread until 50 per cent or more of the animals per herd become tubercular, as is the case in some European countries. If by taking one-third of an animal now from every herd in this country tuberculosis will be eradicated, the expense will not bankrupt the livestock industry, nor will it be too much for the State and National government to bear," said Dr. John R. Mohler, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, in an address to the Seventh Annual Eastern States Tuberculosis Conference at Burlington, Vt., June 23-25.

citrus canker eradication campaign. Science is doing more every day for the betterment of agriculture.

"There is another southern crop about which I want to say a word. That is tobacco. A marked increase in the production of the fine-cured or cigarette type of tobacco has been an outstanding development of recent years in Virginia, the Carolinas, and Georgia. It seems evident, however, that present production is at or near the saturation point of active demand. A continued increase in production may therefore be expected to result in low and unprofitable prices. Here, as in the case of the other crops I have discussed, the thing to do is to improve the quality of the crop, without unduly increasing the volume of production.

"As I remarked before, efficiency on the farm is the basis of profitable marketing practices. Efficient production is brought more easily than efficient into adequate relation with market needs. It is easy to see why this is so. Efficiency lessens the relative effect of weather and pests in causing variations of yield from year to year. It brings the volume, as well as the cost, of production, under better control. This enables farmers, acting together, to regulate their output more nearly to anticipated market requirements, and to avoid extreme fluctuations in prices.

"With efficient production, the farmers of the south, as in every other section of the country, will be better enabled to make use of their marketing organizations, which I trust, will grow rapidly and solidly. It is impossible to have too much sound organization among farmers. The legislative action which I have outlined will, I hope, go into effect and enable the organizations, and through them the individual farmers, to develop a more consistent production and marketing program. This will mean an agriculture that is permanent and that is consistently remunerative. Here is the absolute essential for the right sort of farming and the right sort of rural life—a fair profit consistently realized year after year."

Regulations On Awarding Scholarships to State Institutions Adopted

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., August 26.—The following regulations governing the awarding of scholarships in the University of Florida and in the Florida State College for Women, under the act of the legislature of 1923, were approved and adopted by the State Board of Education:

1. Every applicant for a scholarship is required to stand an examination whether he or she has completed or not.
2. The question for the examination shall be based on the following: Four years of work in high school English, one year in high school algebra, general history, and American history and constitution. The competitor for a scholarship who makes the highest average grade on the examinations in the above named subjects shall be awarded said scholarship, provided that no person shall be awarded a scholarship who does not make an average grade of 70 per cent on all subjects with a grade on no subject below 50 per cent.
3. Examination for scholarships shall be held on the first Thursday in June and the third Thursday in August of each year at the county seat of each county, under the supervision of the county superintendent, upon question prepared in the office of the state superintendent of public instruction.
4. Students failing for two consecutive months to half of the subjects taken at the institutions of higher learning shall forfeit the scholarship and be required to return the amount of the fund used for the stipulated expenses.
5. Every holder of a scholarship must register either in the Teachers' College of the University of Florida or in the School of Education of the Florida State College for Women; and no change of registration will be allowed until after the full amount of money previously used for the holder from the scholarship fund shall have been refunded.
6. The institutions of higher learning shall make quarterly reports to the state superintendent of public instruction of each scholarship student to show the scholastic standing and quality of work of said student.

PLENTY PICKLES

Watermelons seem to be especially plentiful this year. The rinds make delicious preserves and good pickles.

LEAVE IT TO US

Few people can tell at a glance whether a Used Car is as good as it appears to be. Which makes it doubly important to patronize a dealer who has a reputation for giving honest facts and honest values.

You Can Easily Kill and Prevent Bed Bugs

You can't be too careful about those little pests. No house is safe unless you take the right precautions. But Bee Brand Insect Powder will keep them out and it's safe and easy to use.

Sprinkle thickly on springs and mattresses, into cracks and crevices. It's a clean powder that can't hurt children or stain fabrics. Better be safe than sorry. Use Bee Brand before bed bugs come.

It kills lice, ants, flies, fleas, mosquitoes, roaches, water bugs, moths, lice on fur, and many other house and garden insects. Get Bee Brand in and out of your case. At your grocer's or drug store. A five-cent tin, 10 and 25c. Check sizes, 50c and $1.00. Procter & Gamble Co.

If your dealer can't supply you, send us the five-cent tin. We'll send you a sample and ask for five more. It kills them, a guide for killing house and garden pests.

COMRADE CLARK BOWELL

Comrade Clark Howell, who has been living in St. Cloud for a number of years and has been in poor health sometime, died at the home of Mrs. W. H. Lee on South Pennsylvania avenue Sunday morning at 8 o'clock at the age of 82 years. The body was prepared by the Kleckstein Bros. and shipped on the noon train Tuesday to Union, Pa., where the funeral will be held. He was a man who is presiding over of the Methodist Episcopal church also a daughter.

JAMES M. SAYRE

James M. Sayre was born in Monroe, Indiana, August 28, 1860, and died August 25, 1926, at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning. Through a strange coincidence the hour and day of the month of his birth were the same as the hour and day of his death seventy-six years later. He died at his home in St. Cloud, Fla., after a long illness.

Mr. Sayre was a devoted member of the Christian church of which he has been a life-long member.

Dr. E. W. Taylor, pastor of the Christian church presided at the funeral service. Burial was at St. Paul.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank the many friends who so kindly assisted me in the funeral service and death of my dear husband, and to express my appreciation to Dr. Wm. Landis for his comforting words to the dear for their beautiful singing, and to Mr. E. M. Hadden, the G. O. P., and the W. H. C. for their kindness. LUIS T. J. COLE

REALTORS LOOKING TO FUTURE

Another meeting of the Realtors Board was held in the St. Cloud Cafe last Friday, when the matters of importance were taken up and a round-table discussion with reference to the coming season. Its present outlook from every angle is especially bright and from every possible source of information all indications are that an influx of the tourist seems favorable and while there will not be the speculative class, there will be those who will make conservative investments.

Two much stress can not be placed on getting the city cleaned up and attractive and ready for the guests.

Report was made of the cleaning of the canal, which began Friday, with hope of giving relief from the excessive high waters on our lake front.

Those present were: H. L. Ryan, Mrs. Rosenthal, C. E. Stein, H. L. Galloway, Mrs. E. Freedland and Wm. Landis.

ST. CLOUD ARCHERS GO TO DAVENPORT

DAVENPORT, Aug. 24.—One of the new features of the Davenport Day Celebration will be an archery contest between clubs representing St. Cloud, Orlando, and Mt. Dora, according to E. H. Becker, Secretary of the St. Cloud Club, who is arranging the affair.

Each club will have members enter the contest, all of whom are expert archers. They will shoot 90 arrows per man and this part of the day's activities is expected to attract a large number of people, as archery clubs are being organized throughout Central Florida and the interest in this sport is spreading with great rapidity.

Each of the clubs is expected to have a large representation. Cups and other prizes will be offered by the St. Cloud Club and the Davenport Yacht Club will offer a silver shield mounted on wood for the winner of the contest.

This is only one of the many interesting events which will be held during the day's activities at Davenport on Labor day.

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA TROOP ONE OF ST. CLOUD

Regular weekly troop meeting held in Park Club House Friday, August 20th, was an inspiration to the old Scouts as it was the first meeting in some time when all Scouts reported present 100 per cent. The Zebek Patrol being the largest in both numbers and also, had an easy time walking away with the tag of war, but they will have to look well to their homes or the flag and Wolf Patrols will get them both. The Eagle and Wolf Patrols are working hard to support them in Patrol No. 1.

Then candidates were invested with the rank of tenderfoot, the initiation consisting of a little bit of pep, as the candidates can testify.

We were glad to notice our old visitors at this meeting. Come again. Always glad to have you attend any of our meetings.

W. E. Cook, of St. Cloud, a member of St. Cloud Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., has an enviable Masonic record, having been a member of the Masonic Fraternity for sixty years. Mr. Cook was made a Mason in Hancock county, Ill., when he was twenty-one years old, and is now eighty-one years young, and still enjoys attending the meetings of the Lodge.

The Tribune would like to hear from others who have long Masonic records. Doubtless there are other members of the craft of many years that will compare favorably with Comrade Cook's membership.

About Your Health

Things You Should Know

by John Joseph Guiney, M. D.

YOUR KNEES.

A perfect knee is a wonderfully constructed hinge, with its shock absorbers, its firm connecting bands, and its smooth, gliding "bearings." And, the knee-joint is a mighty ugly proposition when it is injured or diseased.

Knee injuries are very common, and even slight injury may result in serious damage. Over-use in heavy patients may result in diseased cartilages and roughened friction-surfaces which will take months or years to cure, even if cure be possible. The cartilages are often crowded out of place by pressure or strain, requiring surgical removal before relief may be had.

Even the knee-cap may be involved in inflammation about the joint, the "synovial membrane" lines the joint, and when inflamed, becomes "synovitis," a most painful condition, and one always hard to cure. It is a serious matter when the synovial fluid escapes from its natural situation, and accumulates in a bag-like cavity, requiring tapping sometimes for relief of the severe pain.

Volume could be written on the knee-joint and its diseases. I would like my readers to remember these points:

(1) That all knee affections are serious, or capable of becoming so.

(2) That rest, and heat are among the first things thought of in successful treatment.

(3) That massage in any form may be positively injurious.

(4) That a skilled physician and surgeon should be consulted on the appearance of knee-symptoms.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

August 29—September 1

If your birthday is this week you are very original. You have a well-balanced, discriminating mind, and are quick in action, decision and word. You have a quick, but no malicious or vengeful temper. You can be very generous and bitter, however, when things don't please you. You are a keen, critical observer, and small details never escape your notice. You have a materialistic nature, and want the best of material things.

You are demonstrative in affection, kind, sympathetic, and reliable. You have many friends, whom you are always ready to accommodate, regardless of the inconvenience it may cause you. You are fond of guests and pleasure, and are fond of society.

IDEAL FLOOR

The ideal kitchen floor is durable, comfortable to walk and stand on, smooth but not slippery, easy to clean, not injured by grease and water, and attractive in color and appearance. The wooden floor finished with oil or paint or covered with a good quality of plain or inlaid linoleum meets many of these points.
